~~In my opinion,~~

I think that by the quotation: "Procrastination is the thief of time, collar him" Charles Dickens mean that it is just a time-wasting feeling. You should avoid procrastination and do all your tasks in time.

I agree with this point of view of the author, because instead of procrastinating you can pay attention to ~~the~~ more important tasks or things, such as ^{doing} your homework, cleaning up the room or cooking dinner. Moreover, when you procrastinate the number of your tasks will only increase and then you will have to do all of them on the one day.

Sometimes, I also procrastinate, but I try to find reasons for stopping it. Two years ago I have been doing nothing of my tasks for the only one week. Then my mother said that I have to do all of them until Sunday. I was very tired of doing all tasks on the one evening and night. So, now I try to avoid the procrastination.

In conclusion, I'd like to say that avoidance of procrastination is the best way for all people. People of all ages should "collar" it. There are a lot of activities you can do instead of just lying and doing nothing.
