Charles Dickens' quotation, "Procrastination is the thief of time, collar him," highlights the negative effects of delaying tasks and the importance of taking action. Dickens means that procrastination, which often involves postponing responsibilities, steals our time that could be used for productive activities. Many people can relate to this idea as the habit of hesitating to start tasks which can lead to avoidance and feelings of regret.

In ~~my~~ my opinion, procrastination is a big problem to reaching our goals. First, it creates a sense of idle time, where we miss opportunities while we focus on unimportant activities instead of what really matters. For example, during a few previous years I often found my self time-wasting on social media instead of studying. This led to unnecessary stress and lower grades. Second, procrastination can demotivate us. When we delay tasks, they can become overwhelming, making it even harder to start. I remember a time when I had to write ^{an} ~~an~~ essay. My initial avoidance meant I had to rush at the last minute, which made the quality of my work worse than it could be.

ENG 9352

In conclusion, I would like to note that Dickens' quote shows us how important it is to face procrastination. By seeing it as a thief of time we can make steps to manage our responsibilities better. Being disciplined also gives us sense of achievement and satisfaction.
